Vienna, May 22.

THE Prince of Dombes, who arrived here ſome Days ago, has ſince had his Audiences of the Emperour and all the Imperial Family, except the Empreſs Conſort, and was received by them very honourably. Yeſterday the Electoral Prince of Bavaria, and a younger Brother, arrived here. They bring with them three of their Father's Regiments which are to make the Campaign, and which are actually going down the Danube. The Electoral Prince would have been lodged at Court, if the Prince of Portugal, and the Dutcheſs of Blanckenbourg had not already taken up the ſpare Apartments in the Palace; however, he is to eat there while he ſtays, but the younger Brother is here incognito. The Prince of Portugal is on his Departure for Hungary.

Berne, May 22. This Canton having received ſome Days ago a Letter from the Biſhop of Porentru, wherein he expreſſes a Willingneſs to come to an Accommodation, and propoſes a Meeting of ſome Perſons to be deputed on both Sides for that Purpoſe; the Sovereign Council of Two Hundred named Yeſterday a Member of theirs to meet the Deputy of that Biſhop, at a Place called Buren. The 20th in the Morning a Fire happened in the French Ambaſſadour's Houſe at Soleure, which within two Hours time conſumed it intirely. 'Tis ſaid he has loſt upon this Occaſion all his Papers, Plate and Goods. Letters from Italy adviſe, that the Queen of Sicily being indiſpoſed, the King had put off their Journey for Savoy to the 25th Inſtant. The two Deputies which went lately on the Part of this Canton to St. Gall, in order to inquire into ſeveral Thefts committed in that Convent, have been ſince joined by two others from the Canton of Zurich; and the former are expected back here in a few Days.

Copenhagen, May 29. On the 18th Inſtant in the Morning, Sir George Byng, with the Squadron of Britiſh Men of War under his Command, ſailed from this Port, and the next Day joined the Daniſh Squadron in the Bay of Kiog. On the 20th came Advice, that Commadore Tordenſchild, who commands the Daniſh Squadron in the North Sea, had made an Attempt on the Port of Gottenbourg, where he ſunk a Swediſh Man of War, and burnt a Magazine in which Cables and other naval Stores were kept; but he loſt two Gallies, and a Captain with about 60 Men were killed. The Britiſh Men of War which are cruiſing in the North Sea, have taken ſix Swediſh Privateers. Count la Marcq, the French Envoy to the King of Sweden, who being indiſpoſed, was ſome Days aſhore at Groſſeave, a Houſe of the King's near Steffens, went aboard a little Galley the 16th, and was landed in Schonen: On the 27th arrived here his Secretary M. Lagau from Lund in Schonen, where he left the ſaid Count with the King of Sweden. The Buſineſs he came about, was to deſire the King of Denmark's Leave for ſome one of Count la Marcq's Servants to be always at Elſinore, to take Care of his Letters: But 'tis judged more convenient that the Governour of Elſingbourg ſhould direct the Count's Packets to the Governour of Cronenbourg, who is to forward them, and is alſo to ſend over to Elſingbourg the Letters that ſhall come for the Count. The ſaid Secretary went back Yeſterday to Schonen. Vice-Admiral Gabel being made Secretary at War, Admiral Rabe took Leave Yeſterday of the King, in Order to take on him the Command of the Daniſh Squadron, which with that under Sir George Byng, is ſtill detained by contrary Winds in the Bay of Kiog.

Bruſſels, May 26. The Marquis de Prié, Adminiſtrator of the Auſtrian Netherlands, being well informed that the Rulers of the Nine Nations (as they are called here) or Companies of Tradeſmen, who have violently oppoſed the granting the Subſidy required of this City, had entred into a Combination to oppoſe the Continuance of the ſeveral Duties of Exciſe, by the Suppreſſion of which Duties there would be no Fund left for paying the Troops and
